8	Yes! And these are the main ones: "The United States is TOO BIG for this to work -- it's fine for small countries like Norway, Finland, etc." and "The United States is TOO DIVERSE for it to succeed." These have evidently been presented as good talking points somewhere, and people just parrot them without thinking. I believe that Russia, China and India all have some form of single-payer healthcare -- and they are "big" countries. And declaring the U.S "too diverse" constitutes an acknowledgement and even a promotion of bigotry! We also hear people telling us that this country "can't afford it" despite the fact that it's the richest country in the world. This goes directly to the issue of the growing income inequality we are currently experiencing.	8/10/2018 2:43 PM
9	Can not think of any	8/10/2018 1:05 PM
10	Major issues with loss of individual choices of all types for health care, and loss of independence by providers, and loss of medical insurance industry/market. What if we all faced the problems that have been plaguing the VA system? Is that an example of how badly awry a single-payer system could go? Loss of timely access for highly desirable but not urgent or essential medical services, tests, or procedures. What would happen to it if some classes of people didn't have to depend on it for their own care? What about access to politically disfavored procedures and services such as euthanasia or marijuana or to elective, cosmetic procedures, or to things not yet approved as safe and effective for various reasons, including bureaucracy and politics? It's important that individuals have maximum choice over their own care, and single payer systems tend to limit that. What do we do with shortages of suppliers or surge demand, especially with bias and discrimination so rampant in our systems?	8/10/2018 11:21 AM
11	How will it be paid for?	8/10/2018 10:34 AM

16	'in canada they have long wait lines & or they can't get the surgery or whatever they need done & come to US to get it'	8/9/2018 10:55 AM

17	People still cry socialism as if it is some scary concept. People still believe there will be long waits for healthcare and a decline in quality healthcare. Though great in roads have been made there still remains a significant amount of apathy among people who have employer based health insurance and even among union members. Union members that find their organizations constantly having to renegotiate health benefits which are constantly dwindling and becoming more and more expensive. This apathy stems from a lack of education as to how much the cost of health insurance to their employer actually affects them. Lack of education as to how Single Payer can benefit them and the economy. More union involvement is essential in the movement for a Single Payer Health care model and continuous education of business and employees is essential.	8/9/2018 1:04 AM

(always from a person with a great insurance form work or union and one bragged about the perfect retirement health insurance and drug coverage from his NYCPD union. NYS Hikkund office said it would be bad for business owners that would have to pay for insurance for their employees. 2 weeks before 2016 my Obamacare doubled to $600. Hillary's office would not answer the phone.the idiot at Tim Kaine's office read me the script that only 15% is on ACA. I told him that his statement made me decide not to vote.. he told me that was my choice. most of the idiot aids are still on their parent's insurance.Even "liberals" feel entitled , they have it and you don't and I don't want it to cost me money in taxes. Schumer and cuomo say save ACA and yet NYS single payer has passed the nYS house 4 years in a row and they have not pushed the NYS senate to pass it.. They are not uninformed. 195	Talking to Texas Reps and Senators Cruz and Cornyn is like talking to a wall. They will do anything to get what they want and do not listen to the people. People in Tx are propagandized and religious right and dark money ALEC rule. GOP in Tx do not want to pay their fair share of taxes and the GOP wags the dog, abortion, taxes, pathological nationalism. Teams of corporate lawyers have taken over the courts and tell judges how to rule...money screams the loudest judges rule with gross impropriety and without legal justification in many cases. How do we stand up to them. In Texas I have had taken what I worked for my whole life my deeded property rights and covenants that run with the land and cannot fight back after years of draining lawsuits and now am dependent on Social Security and Medicare. We are being crushed in Texas. People say that costs of Obamacare too high. I try to explain that it is because of GOP undermining it and Ins co dark money in politics. We need Medicare for ALL, decades overdue, simple cost effective, suffering and healthy people need it with dental, hearing, vision, rehab, mental health, Opt out if you can afford or want to buy your own Ins.	8/7/2018 9:41 AM
